

ABSTRACT

A data processing architecture comprising:

- 5        an input device for receiving an incoming stream of data packets; and
- a plurality of processing elements which are operable to process data received thereby;
- wherein the input device is operable to distribute data
- 10    packets in whole or in part to the processing elements in dependence upon the data processing bandwidth of the processing elements.

10073948-024402